Red Boss Asks Top-Level Talks

Democratic Ballot Edge Seen Rising

Major Races Won In Off-Year Vote, Ike Pleas Rebuffed

By JACK BELL, AP Political Reporter

Democrats swept most significant races yesterday in an off-year election interpreted as indicating a measure of dissatisfaction with the Eisenhower administration's military and domestic policies.

Democrats won the big ones by victories in the governor races in New Jersey and Virginia and in the re-election of Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. of New York City.

Republicans held on to House seats in special elections in New Jersey and Pennsylvania in their only indication of stemming the Democratic tide.

Satellites Seen Factor

Although none could assess accurately the political effect of the firing of two Soviet satellites, there was general opinion that the admitted American setback contributed to what could only be regarded as a Democratic sweep.

It seemed apparent the Democrats had cashed in to some extent on what Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, told reporters was the greatest indication he had ever received that the American people were "worked up" over an issue—the Russian ability to put satellites into space while the United States only talked about it.

Republicans had scant hopes of winning any significant test in yesterday's balloting. They faced an off-year election trend that usually goes against the party in control of the White House. But some GOP members had hoped their candidates might do better than they did.

In one of the top contests, Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey scored a 200,000-vote margin over his Eisenhower-endorsed opponent, GOP State Sen. Malcolm S. Forbes. Eisenhower thus was denied the "big shot in the arm" he said a Forbes victory would give certain Republicans.

Meyner's victory propelled him into the contest for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination with all the force of a Russian satellite. His re-election in a normally Republican state seemed likely to set off a second-stage ratchet for any presidential ambitions he holds.

Meyner added a fillip to his victory by helping carry into office a Democratic majority in the State Assembly, which Republicans had controlled since 1937. Neil Duffy, Forbes' campaign (Continued on Page 2; Col. 3)

Hoffa's Foes Set To Appeal

NEW YORK (AP)—A group fighting to throw out the election of James R. Hoffa as president of the giant Teamsters Union today was reported planning an appeal that the union be kept in the AFL-CIO as they wage their battle.

The Wall Street Journal said the appeal would be made in Washington this week to AFL-CIO President George Meany. It also said the anti-Hoffa forces were seeking to raise a $200,000 fund to finance their campaign.

The Hoffa opposition is spearheaded by 13 New York Teamsters members who initiated a federal court action in Washington to nullify Hoffa's recent election at a union convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

Gaillard Puts Algeria Issue Top Priority

PARIS (AP)—France's new premier today gave rebellious Algeria top priority in his legislative program.

Voted into office after the nation's longest postwar Cabinet crisis, Felix Gaillard told the National Assembly he would demand adoption of the Algerian home rule bill on which the last government of Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury founded Sept. 30. But Gaillard said he would accept amendments to give greater weight to the votes of French residents.

That might appease the French in Algeria. However, it appeared likely the Arab rebels would reject Gaillard's bill, just as they did Bourgès-Maunoury's. The rebels demand independence.

The 38-year-old financial expert, youngest French government chief since Napoleon Bonaparte, said the second order of business would be to ease the grave financial crisis. He promised a strict 1958 budget and 100 billion francs—238 million dollars—in new taxes, and said he would ask for special financial powers, presumably to cut expenses by decree.

Although he did not mention it in his speech, Gaillard also is expected to seek a loan from the United States or West Germany to meet the acute foreign exchange shortage.

The Assembly accepted Gaillard and a "National Union" Cabinet early today by a vote of 337-173.

David Lawrence Election Winner

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mayor David Lawrence, one of the country's top Democratic leaders, yesterday won his fourth successive four-year term—something no one else has done in Pittsburgh.

Lawrence easily defeated his Republican opponent, former Judge John Drew. Returns from the city's 438 precincts gave Lawrence 128,248 votes to 68,737 for Drew.

Gov. Meyner Gains Stature In Victory Over Republican

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner's national political stock hit a new high today after his resounding reelection victory over a Republican candidate who ran with President Eisenhower's full backing.

With 4,136 of New Jersey's 4,219 districts reported in yesterday's election, Meyner led State Sen. Malcolm S. Forbes 1,081,563 to 879,439.

Meyner's plurality of 200,000 votes in a normally Republican state was sure to add to his stature as a possible Democratic presidential or vice presidential candidate in 1960. Only minutes after

West Missile Bases Mapped To Curb Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is expected to propose to allied nations the creation of a network of missile bases within striking distance of Soviet targets. The proposition may figure in President Eisenhower's meeting with leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris in mid-December.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news-conference yesterday that while the United States has already made arrangements with Britain for establishment of an intermediate range missile unit in the British Isles he thought "it would be desirable to have them elsewhere."

The missiles involved would be those which, like the Army's Jupiter and the Air Force Thor, have an operational range of about 1,500 miles.

Dulles pictured the United States as being behind Russia in the development of ballistic missiles but said "I feel assured that we can catch up."

Eisenhower Not Likely To Pay Visit To London

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today that it now looks as if President Eisenhower will not visit London when he goes to Paris for a meeting of Atlantic Pact leaders next month.

Mr. Eisenhower said only last week that he would like to stop off in London, though he did not know whether it could be arranged.

Racket Probe Set To Expose Crooked Deals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today his Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has evidence to expose in the months ahead what he called more crooked dealings between employers and labor union leaders.

Winding up hearings on the tactics used by Nathan W. Shefferman and firms which employed Shefferman's labor consulting service, McClellan said the committee will deal starting Nov. 12 with charges of racketeering in New York City's big and sprawling waste collection industry.

It will involve, he said, collusive practices by some companies with labor officials he declined to name—in part to squeeze out competitors of the employers.

The committee wound up its hearings on Shefferman's activities yesterday. McClellan read into the official record a statement that the evidence showed conduct by Shefferman, by some firms which hired him, and by some Teamsters Union people that "should be strongly condemned."

He announced later he would ask the Justice Department and income tax investigators to look through transcripts of the testimony for evidence of law violations.

Shefferman, 70-year-old head of the Chicago firm of Labor Relations Associates, Inc., invoked the Fifth Amendment 25 times, and his son Shelton invoked it 34 times on the witness stand.

Neutrals' Win In Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A slate of candidates, publicly neutral on the racial issue here, yesterday took six of the seven city director positions over segregationist opponents on the basis of complete but unofficial returns.

The slate had been backed by the Good Government Committee, a group which had initiated the fight to change from the mayor-council to the city manager form of government months before Little Rock Central High.

Missile Program Probe Slated

Ike Reports Tomorrow On 'Science And Security'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee moved today to bring out any complacency regarding the missile program as President Eisenhower hurried a report on the nation's progress.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas announced yesterday the Senate Preparedness subcommittee he heads will launch a hard-hitting inquiry into the missile and satellite programs this month. Its purpose will be to assess blame for delays, to relieve anxiety and reply to

Moonwatch Teams Look For Sputnik

Tokyo Says Second Satellite Preceded By Another Object

By FRED S. HOFFMAN WASHINGTON (AP)—American Moonwatch teams scanned the skies today in hopes of spotting Russia's second Sputnik. Meanwhile, a Senate group sought to spur U.S. efforts to catch up with the Soviets in the satellite-missile fields.

Officials alerted 105 Moonwatch teams to turn out during day-break hours when Sputnik II is expected to make three passes over the United States—one just off the East Coast, a second in the Midwest and a third in the Far West. Three more early morning passes are due tomorrow.

Object Not Identified There was a report from Tokyo that Sputnik II is being preceded in its orbit by another object, so far unidentified.

Russia has launched two space satellites. The most recent, fired aloft last Sunday, weighs more than half a ton and carries a small female dog—the world's first space traveler. The United States, according to current plans, will not fire its first small test spheres until next month. Launching of a fully instrumented American satellite is planned for March.

Spectacular Soviet success in the scientific field has aroused concern in the United States, and evoked demands by some members of Congress for drastic action to overtake the Soviets.

In the face of this apparently mounting concern President Eisenhower advanced to tomorrow night a speech on science and security he had planned to deliver at Oklahoma City on Nov. 13.

Eisenhower's half-hour talk will be delivered via radio and television, starting at 8 p.m. EST. The CBS network arranged to carry it live, with others to broadcast it at later hours.

Amid the debate over the U. S. missile and satellite status, officials at the White Sands Proving Ground in New Mexico said yesterday two types of the Navy Talos missile had been fired successfully at airborne targets.

The Defense Department said a New York engineering architectural firm—Grad Urban—Seelye—had been chosen to plan a multimillion dollar launching device for the Snark. The Snark is a jet-powered guided missile with intercontinental capabilities. It travels at subsonic speeds.

Disease Carrier Check Begun On Formosa By U. S.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—A U. S. medical research unit to study infectious diseases of this part of the world and their animal and insect carriers was formally commissioned today by Mansfield Sprague, U. S. assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs.

The unit was located on the island of Guam during World War II and was reactivated here 2½ years ago. It is headed by Navy Capt. Robert A. Phillips, who formerly directed a similar U. S. unit at Cairo.

Flying Saucer Scare Seen By Astronomer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Harvard astronomer says mysterious objects reported from various parts of the country and the Gulf of Mexico are mirages stemming from natural causes.

Dr. Donald H. Menzel, director of the Harvard College of Observatory, said yesterday in Cambridge, Mass., that the whole thing amounts to "another flying saucer scare."

A rash of such reports had developed since Sunday, with some of the sightings said to have been made near secret military installations in the Southwest. Some of the persons making the reports said the objects caused their automobiles to stall and their radios to fade.

The Air Force has started an investigation of the reported sightings of the strange glowing objects in the sky. The Air Force for years has had the responsibility of checking reports of unidentified flying objects.

Yesterday the Coast Guard cutter Sebago radioed from the Gulf of Mexico that an object resembling a brilliant planet with a high rate of speed was seen for about three seconds, and that it was tracked by radar.

Menzel said it is probable the cutter's crewmen got a false image "quite likely from bubbles of hot air in the atmosphere which would give a radar reflection."

As for reports of auto engines stalling, Menzel said "it would not be surprising that a nervous fool could stall an engine."

Menzel, author of a book about flying saucers, said he has been studying them for 10 years and has yet to hear of one which could not be explained by natural phenomena.

Navy Reports Talos Tested

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (AP)—The Navy says two types of its Talos missile were fired successfully against airborne targets yesterday.

One, designed to carry an explosive warhead, was fired at a B-17 radio-controlled bomber flying at "medium altitude far down-range."

The second was designed to carry a nuclear warhead and was fired at an F-80 radio-controlled fighter plane.

Khrushchev Airs Bid To End Tension

Repeats Claim U. S. Plotting To Create Middle East Strife

By HAROLD K. MILKS MOSCOW (AP)—Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev called again today for a "high level" East-West meeting to seek an end to world tensions.

Speaking at a joint jubilee session of the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Union's parliament, Khrushchev declared:

"We should like to have a high level meeting of representatives of capitalist and socialist countries so as to reach agreement on excluding war as a means of solving political questions."

Again Accuses U. S.

At the same time the party chief repeated the recent Soviet charges that the "Americans are plotting against Syria, and inciting Israel and Turkey to provocation."

Earlier, in high spirits over Russia's lead in the space satellite race, he called on the United States and other nations to send up baby moons to join Russia's in a "commonwealth of Sputniks."

"Such a commonwealth, such a competition would be much better than competition in the race to manufacture death-producing weapons," he declared.

Khrushchev predicted the Soviet Union could exceed America's volume of production in the next 15 years. He said the requirements of the Soviet people could be satisfied in five to seven years without curtailing military production and heavy industry, and that the housing shortage would be licked in 10 to 12 years.

Khrushchev also condemned the NATO summit meeting in Paris in December which President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and other Western heads of state will attend. The Soviet chief said that meeting "promises nothing good in the cause of peace."

Khrushchev leveled a specific blast at U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, declaring: "By keeping the world on the brink of war, as Dulles put it, the imperialists are trying to make favorable conditions for the monopolist monopolies."

The Soviet leader spoke for three hours and seven minutes to 10,000 persons jamming Moscow's giant Sports Palace. His audience—which gave him a standing ovation as he entered with Red China's Mao Tse-tung—included leaders from all over the Communist world on hand for the 40th anniversary tomorrow of the Bolshevik revolution.

Pet Shop Owner Creates Stir By 'Baby Sale' Ad

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—"Baby for sale, six inches high, big brown eyes, lovable." This advertisement in a local paper brought A.J. Cook an avalanche of phone calls, describing him as everything from a brute to "a monster with no human feelings."

Hastening to set the record right today, Cook—a pet shop owner—told a reporter: "I carelessly left out the first word in the advertisement. The word was 'bushy.'"

A bushy baby is a lemur, a nocturnal animal from the tropics which looks like a big-eyed monkey.

Virginia Integration Foe Gains Victory By Landslide

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Democrat permitting token integration—J. Lindsay Almond Jr., 59, carried his pledge for a last ditch fight against any race mixing in public schools to a landslide victory at his gubernatorial election.

The white-bellied former attorney general, who had the post-shots found the mark, especially the backing of the Byrd political organization, easily beat down the second challenge of Republican Dalton lost by a 9 to 5 margin.

Dalton lost by a 9 to 5 margin on a program that called for moderate integration on the schools-race issue. His plan would have substituted for massive resistance a program, election,

Push Hunt For Gunman Who Slew Two Troopers

ELLERBE, N. C.—Police threw up roadblocks and launched a mass road hunt in south-central North Carolina last night for a driver who shot and killed two state highway patrolmen 30 miles apart.

Pfc. W. L. Reece was shot and killed when he attempted to stop a car near here about 8 p. m. Pfc. J. T. Brown, who attempted to stop the same car an hour later near Sanford, was shot in the abdomen and died on the operating table of a Sanford hospital.

Moonwatch

Officers sought a 1957 black Oldsmobile with Pennsylvania license plates, driven by a man described as about 25 years old, weighing about 140 pounds and possibly Indian or Negro.

Ellerbe police officer Guy McNeal said Reece had stopped the car at a speed check point and the driver shot Reece then "drove off, leaving him standing there."

Officers said a Negro passenger in the car had been taken to a nearby Rockingham for questioning. Officers said the passenger told them he jumped from the car when the driver reached into the glove compartment for a pistol.

of Soviet government and party "elders" in the Kremlin's Grand Hall. It will reach its climax tomorrow in the annual parade of military might and civilian workers through Red Square.

Khrushchev in his speech bore down on the achievements of Russian scientists.

Cites Soviet Achievements
The Soviet Union, he said, was the first to use atomic energy for peaceful purposes. He claimed it had developed the intercontinental ballistic missile for the same use and cited the Soviet launching of the first two earth satellites.

"Now our first Sputnik is not only in its space travels," Khrushchev said.

The Soviet leader poked light fun at America's "Vanguard" project to launch its satellite.

"Our Sputniks are circling the world, and are waiting for American and other Sputniks to appear and make a commonwealth of Sputniks."

The first known attempt to establish a separate flying force in the U.S. Armed Services was made by Rep. James Hays of West Virginia in 1913.

Jury Critical Of 'Big Sky', Guthrie Book

CORBIN, Ky. (AP)—The Whitley County grand jury has criticized circulation of a book written by a Pulitzer Prize-winning author, and asked for further investigation of why the Corbin Public Library was circulating it.

Two Children Bodies Found In Reservoir

MILTON, Wis. (AP)—An intensive search for a brother and sister, missing from their home for hours and asked for further investigation of why the Corbin Public Library was circulating it.

The October grand jury's final report said the book, "The Big Sky," by A. B. Bud Guthrie, contained in a decent language and was "full of lust."

Foreman Edward Rose said the grand jury reported the publication of the book should not be allowed to read it. Rose said the grand jury was brought a copy of "The Big Sky" by a missionary named Davis, who wandered away from their homes in the South to the reservoir surrounded by a high fence. There was just enough time for them to crawl into the tent. The book was circulated by a bookmobile operating from the Corbin Library.

Mrs. Edward Cummings, librarian, had no comment.

Racial Issue Is Factor
Domestically, the Eisenhower administration got an answer from Virginia to the President's action in sending federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., to enforce a federal court order for racial school integration.

Republican Theodore Roosevelt (Ted) Dalton was snarled under in the Virginia gubernatorial race by former State Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. Dalton polled 45 per cent of the vote in normal Democratic Virginia in his first try four years ago. He received less than 37 per cent yesterday.

Almond was backed vigorously by the state organization of Democratic Sen. Harry F. Byrd, who has called for "massive resistance" to school integration.

But in Little Rock itself candidates described by segregationists as potential race mixers won six of seven posts as city directors. The seventh seat was won by a man who did not file as an avowed segregationist, but was backed by the local Citizens Council.

In New York City, Mayor Wagner won a smashing victory without benefit of the Liberal party vote. This encouraged Democrats to believe they have built up the party foundation to re-elect Gov. Averell Harriman next year. The Negro vote in Harlem, which Republicans had hoped would go their way, went about 4-1 for Wagner.

In Connecticut, however, Democratic mayors ran into some trouble. In Stamford and Waterbury Republicans replaced Democrats. In Norwalk, a one-time Socialist who ran as an independent ousted a Democratic mayor.

Another Socialist, Mayor Jasper McLevy of Bridgeport, apparently came to the end of his political road. At 79 and after holding office since 1933, McLevy lost his job to a Democrat by less than 200 votes.

In Pennsylvania, Democrats rolled up big majorities in re-electing Democratic Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh and John T. Hanlon of Scranton to unprecedented fourth terms. Lancaster elected a Democratic mayor for the first time in 23 years. Republicans appeared to have lost a net of five mayors in 23 contests.

Area Industrialists Slate Conference Here Tomorrow

More than 100 of the people who run the big and little industries in the Cumberland area have made reservations for the Business Leaders Conference planned here tomorrow.

The conference will be held at the Ghan Shrine Country Club following a dinner at 6:30 p. m. and is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the Cumberland Chamber.

Speakers will include Edgar H. Cherry, Atlanta, Ga., manager of the Southeastern division of the national chamber; Robert P. Butson, also of Atlanta, division manager; Charles S. Catherman Jr., president of the Cumberland Chamber, and Anthony Saeli, its manager.

Cherry will report the findings of the United States Chamber on the attitudes and opinions of significant segments of the population toward the American free enterprise system.

Among those polled were workers, students, women and community leaders.

The Chamber executives will present specific methods of clearing up some of the misconceptions about American business revealed during the questioning.

The conference is expected to result in the adoption of a definite program of the Cumberland Chamber to explain the workings of the free enterprise system, and to demonstrate its benefits.

It is essentially a "tell and sell America" program, the Chamber said, to tell Americans as well as the world the benefits of the American business system.

The importance of telling the story of the free enterprise system is pointed out in the Chamber's invitations to the conference.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Satellite Score

THE SCORE IN the satellite sweepstakes is Russia 2, United States 0. And a great deal more is at issue than an Olympic medal. Every time the Kremlin registers a scientific victory of this magnitude, it vastly increases its menacing leverage against the world's free and uncommitted peoples. There can be no doubt that, coming so close in the wake of Sputnik I, this new earth satellite will shake severely what confidence may still be left around the globe in America's scientific prowess. Once again, the pre-eminent fact is not the spinning satellite itself. It is the knowledge that the Russians have the rocket force to propel an object they say weighs 1,120 pounds to a height of more than 1,000 miles above the earth.

IF THIS WEIGHT is being accurately reported, then this event increases the likelihood that the Soviet leaders are telling the truth when they claim to have an intercontinental ballistic missile. That they have also managed to send a dog aloft in an air-conditioned and sealed compartment of Sputnik II probably further heightens respect in many quarters for Soviet scientific ingenuity. And this in spite of the inevitable world-wide protests of dog lovers. We might as well face it. When we launch our own 21-pound satellite in the months ahead, it is almost sure to be strictly antielliptical—the feeble tail on the Russian dog.

THE ONLY comfort in the situation is that no proof yet exists that the Russians have solved the very difficult problems of getting a long-range missile back into the earth's atmosphere and onto specific targets. Until they have licked those monumental difficulties our danger is no total. But it is obviously very great, and we cannot afford to assume blithely that it will not be total. Sputnik II forcefully underscores the need for a tremendous new effort by the United States in collaboration with its free friends abroad. If we settle for anything less than this, we may be settling for something considerably less than survival.

A Fable For Rulers

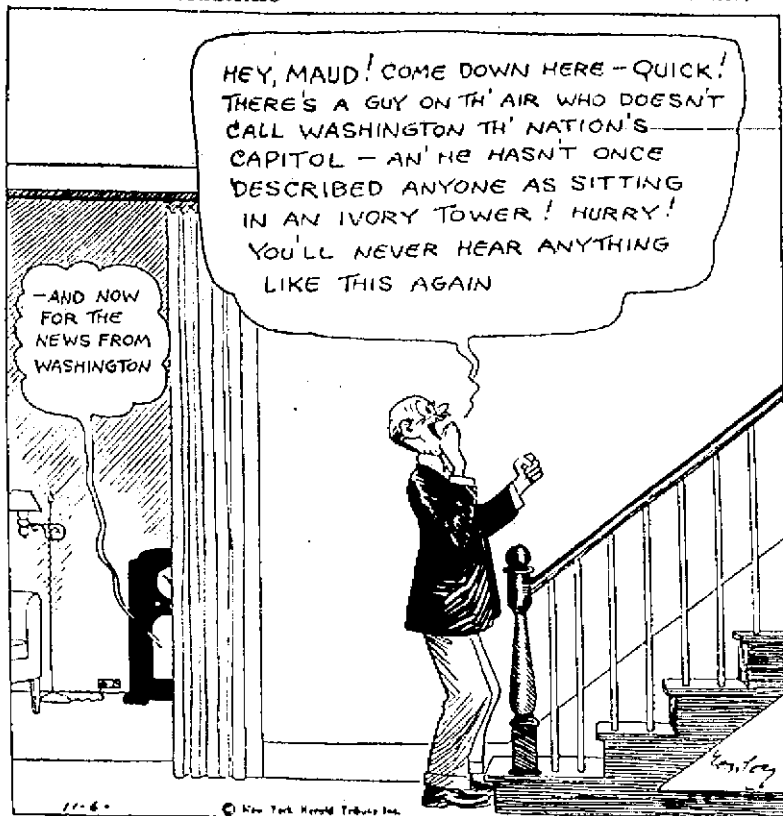

RECENTLY one of the television networks carried a rather elaborate play based on Mark Twain's classic tale, "The Prince and the Pauper." It was pleasant entertainment, a yarn full of swordplay and other exciting incidents. It also was a fable, for those with eyes to see and ears to hear. Mark Twain's story concerns a prince, heir to the throne of England, who trades places with a beggar lad and soon finds himself in more trouble than he had bargained for. While masquerading willfully as a beggar, the prince learns much about the afflictions of his people. He finds that they suffer greatly because of cruelly unjust laws. He feels the adversity of their lives at first-hand. And when he ascends to the throne he reigns the better for these experiences. The moral of the fable, told with such swashbuckling zest on the TV screen, was this: A ruler can be a good ruler only to the extent that he keeps in touch with his people, understands their problems, and is sympathetic to their needs. It is a good moral, one that all government officials—and all citizens who elect them—would do well to bear in mind.

Sandwich In Tube

TO THE TRIUMPHS of applied science may now be added a ham and cheese on rye that comes in a tube. The fact that this gustatory phenomenon was developed for the nourishment of jet pilots is aled inside pressure suits does not lessen its interest for civilians. As in the case of other marvels created for military use, this will doubtless be on the market for the general public after awhile. When that happens, certain psychic adjustments will be necessary. Most of us, by now, are accustomed to squeezing such items as toothpaste and hair cream from tubes. Some of us have even made the transition to mustard from tubes. But a ham and cheese on rye? Would one squeeze it out onto a slice of bread? And would it then be a ham and cheese on rye on rye? This will take some thought. Sometimes it seems that the world is moving too fast for the ordinary fellow who accepts civilization but doesn't help create it.

Nixon In Double Role Faces Big Task

WASHINGTON — In the case of Vice President Nixon we are currently observing the difficulties encountered by a Vice President who seeks, while in that office, to win his party's nomination for President.

Winning that prize and then getting elected to the White House has not been achieved by an incumbent Vice President since Martin Van Buren did it in 1836.

Richard M. Nixon has the same handicap as others in the past. He is not a free agent. He lives and operates in the shadow of another, the President.

This is, in the first instance, because he can hardly do otherwise since he is a party leader and an integral part of the Administration and its policies and, in the second and practical instance, because he depends upon the support and influence of the President to win him the nomination, as Andrew Jackson was able to do for Martin Van Buren over a century ago.

The Vice President is identified with the Eisenhower wing of the party. That is the foundation of his bid for the nomination. Any shift in the public attitude toward the Administration and its policies likewise will reflect upon him. It is indicative for him to criticize the President and his Administration.

IN THE LAST several months the Eisenhower Administration has lost some of its glamor with the public, especially among farmers on account of reduced income, among people of low and medium income and in fixed income because of the gradually rising cost of living to an all-time peak, and among small businessmen.

Its over-all prestige on the domestic front recently has been sullied by reduced business activity and on the international front by our lag behind Russia in scientific progress in the military field.

We are getting some clues that the Vice President has recognized that things are not going too well with the Administration. A man in his position has one avenue through which he can keep himself in the public eye and explain himself.

Since this is one of the techniques of our modern politics, as it has been indeed in all of our history, it is a part of any inspection of the current political scene to take cognizance of it.

THIS DEVICE is the journalistic "claque" which provides a transmission belt for a public man who, like the Vice President, must operate behind a cloak of anonymity in certain particulars. Nearly every day of late we have been reading pieces in the newspaper in which the Vice President is represented as doing this or that chore for the Administration.

There emerges the picture of an active, energetic helper who is working for the good of us all, a cheerful, sunny figure.

Nor can you miss the impression that he also is doing all with method which, for careful calculation of end results, is matched only by the job being done by, and for, an equally ambitious man, somewhat younger, who is angling for the Presidential nomination of the Democrats—Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts.

IN THE SIZE of the "claque," however, the closest rival to the Vice President is another Democrat—Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

But his friends who built him up so far his "moderation" course and for his success in getting a bobtailed civil rights bill through the Senate have found themselves without a principal in recent weeks because he, like other "moderates," has been underground in the South since Little Rock.

Out of one of his occasional speeches Vice President Nixon recently got a lot of mileage. He merely said the natural thing after the Russians tossed their spunk into space, to wit, that it was a warning to us to get busy, but nobody else in the Administration thought of that, though there were lots of silly things said. And so the word was passed around by his claque of what a fine thing he had done, so realistic and honest, and so it was by contrast.

LATELY the Vice President has been represented as playing an active, behind-the-scenes role in the campaign to Jimmy Gov. Goodwin Knight out of his campaign for re-nomination, so as to leave the field to Sen. William F. Knowland, currently the Republican leader in the Senate, who is retiring from the Senate next year to run for Governor.

This is depicted as a kind act of the Vice President on behalf of Bill Knowland who is, as you know, Nixon's chief rival for the Republican Presidential nomination and, preparatory to that, for control of the California delegation to the convention. But preventing a bitter fight within the Republican party over the Governorship which could tear the party apart and open the way for Democratic ascendancy in California, is just as good for Dick Nixon as for Bill Knowland, so the Vice President's kindly act is not entirely an eleemosynary endeavor.

Farm Planners Must Pull Rabbit From Hat

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Eisenhower administration farm plans of 1954 and 1956 having failed to accomplish what they were supposed to do, there is considerable speculation on what kind of a rabbit the Republican magicians can pull out of their hat to save the farm vote in 1958.

In 1954 Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson put on his big drive to get rid of rigid price supports.

Two years later the Eisenhower administration produced its billion-dollar soil bank plan to buy the farm vote. It succeeded on the presidential ticket, all right, but in the farm belt west of the Mississippi, the GOP lost congressmen.

Underlying purpose of both programs was to cut down the production of farm surpluses.

This year the soil bank has cut cotton and wheat production a little. Surpluses might have been far greater, of course, if the soil bank had not been in effect.

BUT GREATER flexibility on price supports doesn't appear to have cut production at all. For this year's crop yields will be among the three greatest in U.S. history.

The most disturbing possibility overhanging the 1958 elections is that there will be record surpluses of all feed grains—corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums. This year's grain sorghum production may double last year's competing heavily with corn.

The supply of feed grains available in relation to livestock and poultry numbers is at a record high.

The normal corn-hog ratio is said to exist when 100 pounds of hog will buy 12 bushels of corn. This year, due to depressed grain prices, 100 pounds of hog have bought as much as 16 bushels of corn.

In such a situation, farmers naturally raise more hogs to fatten on the cheap grain. But this is normally followed by a big drop in hog prices.

IF THAT happens when next spring's pig crop is sent to market next fall, just before the elections, the result in the farm belt could be politically disastrous.

Foreseeing a similar situation developing last fall, Secretary Benson proposed a new corn program. It called for ending corn price supports and dropping corn acreage allotments. Its purpose was to reduce corn production by a free market price.

The plan appealed to some farmers. But others feared that they would gain in higher prices on a reduced crop. So the plan failed to win two-thirds majority approval in a referendum vote.

Congress was then asked to put the plan into effect by law. But a Democratic House majority killed it. So the new program was never given a trial. And the situation got worse. Farmers were even given support for corn raised on acreage not under allotment.

There are no clear indications as yet on what the administration proposes to do about it for next year.

ONE PLAN being considered is to lump all feed grains together under a new flexible price support system. The secretary of agriculture would be given broad powers to set prices so that the food value content of all grains would be equally supported.

If this price support was set at around 60 per cent of parity in place of the 70 to 77 per cent levels now in effect for feed grains, the theory is that production would be cut down to bring it into balance with livestock demands.

Reducing the supply would theoretically raise feed grain prices

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—A portly comic for television, a fellow named George Gobel, made himself a few nickels the other day writing for a weekly newspaper supplement in which he listed all of the jokes which are taboo in his field.

These ranged from bow-legs, on the basis that the sponsor's wife might have a pair of same and, therefore, might be sensitive, to slangy truck drivers because some truck drivers' group wrote in to complain that many of their ilk were educated, Oxford-talking type men.

What it all boiled down to is that the hardest blow to earn in show business is clowning for TV and the thinnest skins in the show business audience can be found on the skeletons of the John Sebastian TV Public—Mr. Gobel complains that you are exceedingly sensitive.

WHAT THIS doll man did not see was that in his gentle essay he had the makings of a first-rate TV show for himself. All he had to do was to take it and reverse the complaints. If truck drivers complain that shaggy, slangy representations of themselves are untrue, let Mr. Gobel do a truck drivers' skit in which all the boys are eggheads, complete with horn-rimmed glasses, lofted domes and missing English perfectly articulated. It could be comic.

Old Caesar, he said, once did a musician bit, with overlong hair and thick glasses. Some eye-glass association wrote in and complained so bitterly that Caesar had to doff the glasses next time around.

Let the boys do musicians with no hair at all and bulging eyes for a change.

Another association wrote in when a toupee skit was done and complained that 250,000 American men wear toupees and they look a dim view of making mock of the defect. No more toupee gags. Let Mr. Gobel do a bit about men with hair down to their waists next time.

BUT ALL OF this is beside the point. What is the point is that associations apparently designed to protect all kinds of Americans from all kinds of humor are so busy writing letters to the networks that they are driving comedy off the glass screen and getting a full, nauseating dose of Westerns for their pains.

Mr. Gobel was not entirely kidding when he said that TV watchers have so many interests to protect or think they have to protect, that comedians are reduced

Up She Goes; Down She Comes

WASHINGTON — I heard a spunk joke last night which was so bad I almost poked in the nose the gent who told it to me. It was an irritating joke. I've been thinking about it ever since.

Only way I'll ever get it out of my system is to share it with somebody and you, gentle reader, are the one I have chosen; you're too far away to work on me with a blunt instrument. Here's the joke:

The Russians have given up the idea of sending dogs around the world in their next spunk. They're working now on developing a small breed of cattle, about four inches tall, to insert inside the silvery sphere. These animals will be known as the herd that was shot around the world.

End joke.

I'M GOING into seclusion now for a couple of days while you long-suffering citizens cool off. I may even stay there for the next couple of years; I'm not so much afraid of the aftermath of spunk jokes as I am of spunks.

I saw in the paper the other day that the Russians predicted the launcher that sent up their private moon was slowing down in its orbit and soon would head toward the earth.

Such aerial debris ordinarily would turn white hot from friction with the air and burn itself out like a falling star. Fair enough.

ONLY THE Reds said their moon was no ordinary soft material like steel. They said it was made of extra hard stuff, with illum in its name, and that while it might glow white hot, it wouldn't burn. They said it would hit the earth like a meteor, with a loud bang, and tear a crater in the crust of this old globe.

They also said they planned an expedition to retrieve it in case it fell into the ocean, or maybe the Gobi Desert. If it landed in the United States, on the other hand, they feared there might be an argument about who owned it. I say, twiddle-twiddle.

I'm not interested where their white-hot spunk lands, so long as it doesn't drop on me. That's the worrisome thing.

THEY'RE ABOUT ready to shoot up a few more moons.

and bring the corn-hog ratio back to normal. If this succeeded, a political upset in the farm belt might be avoided. But nobody really knows if the theory would work.

In his recent speeches, Secretary Benson has been repeating and emphasizing his old demands for more flexibility in the price support system. If granted that, he promises to take further steps to expand distribution so that farmers can sell more than they can when production is held down by allotments.

to making wit about their wives and children — and no one else. If someone finds a bit of humor in a telephone lineman, telephone lineman by the hundreds write in and whine about themselves. If a taxi driver gets a mild japing, taxi drivers write in and say life is tough enough without some clown messing them up. It is ridiculous that our national sense of humor, once a robust and rather wonderful thing, has gone so to seed.

THERE IS a way to stop all this, of course. All the clowns have to do is get together and agree upon a format which all will use for one week. They will go on their shows, each on his night, and looking you straight in your living-room eye will say: "Ladies and gentlemen, you are so thin-skinned, sensitive, silly and unreasonable that tonight I am going to do a new kind of funny show. It will be a show that cannot offend anyone. I am going to stand here and stare at you in complete silence for ten minutes. If you don't like it, hump it."

"It is possible that this kind of silent show will offend one group, of course — the speechless. If they write in to complain that they have been held up to ridicule, I quit. And my associates: Benny, Hope, Caesar, Raye, Silvers, Gleason and others will quit, too."

"Apparently, you think nothing is funny and everything offends someone. Okay, you win! If you want to switch off, go get a beer, or drop dead, you will make me very happy."

THERE WAS, once upon a time, a famed vaudeville act consisting of two burly fellows who deliberately opened with three minutes of inane patter designed not to make anyone truly laugh.

When audiences sat silent, as was expected, the boys would stop in mid-sentence and the most burly of the two would say: "Ladies and gentlemen, you have been such a wonderful audience that my partner will now pass among you with a baseball bat and clobber your heads in." Then the idiots in the audience would laugh.

TV comedians need this kind of approach. And if the barbers, toupee-makers, telephone linemen, street car conductors, the bow-legged and so on down the line, including the psychiatrists and eyeglass manufacturers don't like this column I'll get up and stand with Mr. Gobel. All of you, go hump it!

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK — A change of weather affects mankind. It always does.

One who loves people can develop a feeling toward the impact of weather on persons.

Sometimes it is good, sometimes bad. Sometimes it is hidden.

On me the effect of weather is obvious. The weather is a thing that gives me both an inspiration and a sense of duty. It does to most people.

ON A VISIT to the far Northwest I saw a couple of Douglas fir trees cut down. It was a memorable scene. They made an echo as they fell.

As they fell down the hill, they fell across my heart. All those years of living, even in a tree, must stir an echo.

But the individual death of a tree is not a personal thing, something not missed because you presumed its presence.

There came a day when you looked toward it for routine comfort and it had gone. The shelter of the commonplace was no longer there, and the meadow held a mystery.

You look back, and the tree cut down holds the memory of something against the sky. Your eye remembers.

ONE TREE against the forest? How in autumn can a man know his way through the forest except by the trees?

In the colorful wilderness of their falling leaves he feels a kinship knit by their shedding and his eternal human renewal.

There is a feeling of time and timing in this world—on the bough and in the man.

And in the time of falling leaves a man can walk in the wood, admire the scarlet splendor of nature in its final flourish and see the fall of leaves that happy children will rake up with a shout in the age-old game beyond decay.

A man can endure the torment of autumn after autumn—the frigid repetitiveness of winter after winter—in the hope that he can enjoy again the fresh agony of spring, year after year.

NEW YORK—Every intelligent man who is chained to a big city, by his job or by a brain washing love of quickness and noise, is doomed to wake up one morning and decide he is crazy.

Why ain't he in the country? He is bound to say, where it's so peaceful. Fortunately for the city's census, this sudden depression usually has passed over by noon, and the 14-carat city man is admitting to himself, over the first cigarette in the second pack, that he prefers Broadway to grass, and would rather be ignored by his neighbors than clucked about.

"Sometimes though, there is nothing you can do. The doctor says quit your job and go to the country—either that or pass out quick." Josef Petermann, formerly of New York and now of West Townsend, Vt., shrugs agreeably. "Under these circumstances, you get a move on."

It was seven years ago that Hungarian-born Petermann got his medical orders. He looked in the papers and saw an ad for a country "general store" in Vermont. And people leaving New York prefer general stores, weekly newspapers and antique shops, two-to-one, over lemonade and ham-mocks.

SO PETERMANN bought the country store and with his wife he ventured into the great unknown of birds, trees and people who don't see many new faces—and rather like it that way.

"That store, it didn't do much business for a long time," Josef reported back to his happily frantic friends in New York. He was getting a long, expensive rest. But Petermann, recall, is of European descent and big city inclination; so he never stopped working to woo the people.

He began by aging the local cheddar cheese himself; his wife became the local postmistress, in the front of the store; he restored all the antiques he could find and sold them for practically nothing to local Vermonters; he conducted a service to bring doctors to anybody who wanted them in the middle of the night. And all the time, he studied the local lore as no one had thought to do in this insular little town.

WHEN PETERMANN discovered that it was the old home site of the Taft family before they migrated to Ohio, he put up signs to guide tourists off the main routes to his hamlet. He also made a special stamp-cancellation mark for his wife to use on incoming letters: "West Townsend, Vt., birthplace Robert A. Taft's ancestors."

Gradually, the small town folks from Vermont realized that the big city boy from New York was showing them how to live better and broader lives. West Townsend is booming with tourist business in the summer, and the country store, which seven years ago had 500 visitors a week, now has had 50,000.

Mr. Petermann never has worked so hard in his life, nor been so healthy.

On a nostalgic trip to New York, he tells friends only one thing: switch doctors. They laugh at him, of course; but feel greener than usual inside at the sight of his ruddy new complexion.

BUSINESS executives, as a lens-parked whole, make better artists than ordinary nice guys.

The reason: "Basically, they have greater drive—they tackle a painting as they'd tackle a job, and if they're successful in business it figures they should be successful in leisure.

"Another thing, an executive has long since learned to accept criticism and recognize whether it is valid or not. Unlike the more sensitive man, he cares less what other people think.

"He is, by comparison, uninhibited. And, therefore, more creative."

This, anyway, is the opinion of Elmer L. Winter, president of a firm called "Nan-power, Inc.," and sponsor of a unique many-man exhibition called "From The Executive's Easel," which is stirring up controversial talk in New York.

"It's a big new thing, and saves a lot of psychiatrists' fees—businessmen painting. Hundreds and hundreds are doing it, working off their frustrations and tensions on canvases. Some of them are good enough to be artists by profession, but nobody I know of has yet given up his business. . . . I guess we all of us like to live a little better than artists do."

Polio Shot Program To Be Resumed

Health Department Notes Decrease In Asian Flu Incidence

In the event the incidence of Asian flu type illnesses continues to abate among school children, the Allegany County Health Department will resume the polio inoculation program.

Health nurses have been asked to check on attendance while visiting schools this week, and will get the go-ahead for polio shots if attendance is good, according to Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant for the department.

Since Salk polio vaccine became available, the Health Department here has given over 50,000 shots, most of them to children in the public and parochial schools.

Department officials estimate that by the end of this school year, all of the some 18,000 students of the county will have the protection offered by three shots of polio vaccine.

So far as is known, Allegany will be the only county in Maryland to provide such full protection to its future citizens.

The program was started with vaccine provided by the Polio Foundation and continued with federal and state financed supplies.

The current budget for the Allegany County Health Department includes $10,000 for the purchase of polio vaccine, and the fund is considered sufficient to carry on the full program.

Polio shots are being given in the schools on schedules worked out by health nurses and in various clinics sponsored by the Health Department.

Equipment For Flood Protection Stations Tested

Equipment installed in two pumping stations of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program has been put through trial runs and Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, reports they seem to be satisfactory.

He said work on the Mill Race and Ridgeley pumping stations is complete, except for a few minor jobs, and that a final inspection will be held within the next few weeks.

When the Corps of Engineers formally accepts the pumping stations from the contractor, the E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago, the stations will be turned over to the City of Cumberland for operation.

These two pumping stations and a third being built at the B&O Viaduct are standby units and will be needed only when high water in Wills Creek and the Potomac River closes flaps which at other times allow storm water to flow into the streams by gravity.

Naval Reserve Examination Deadline For Youths Near

High school seniors and graduates have only until November 16 to apply for the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps, according to Chief Thomas L. Scarborough, local recruiter.

Applicants will take a nationwide examination on December 14, as the first step towards appointment as midshipmen, the recruiter noted.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a commission while studying at the civilian college of his choice which has an NROTC unit.

All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives an annual retainer of $600 for four years. During the summers the student goes on training cruises to many parts of the world. After completing the usual four-year college course, he is commissioned with the Navy's far-flung fleets, Chief Scarborough explained.

Celanese Opens Chemical Plant

The Celanese Corporation of America has begun operations at an acrylate ester plant at Pampa, Texas, making another step in its chemical expansion program.

Acrylate esters are a rapidly growing family of petrochemicals used in the paint, leather, textile and paper and other industries. Celanese also supplies these industries with vinyl acetate.

Celanese's production marks the first use of a new method for making acrylate esters developed by Celanese from basicing acrylate esters discovered by Goodrich findings, utilizes acetic B. P. Goodrich Co. The process, acid and formaldehyde.

Ford's new Interceptor V-8 engine took the mighty Himalayas and our own rugged Rockies without a puff. What's more, it did it on surprisingly little gas—thanks to new Precision Fuel Induction. And after thousands of unbelievably tough miles, all roads led to one conclusion: the 58 Ford is the solidest, smoothest, traveling new car ever! Let us show you the world's most beautiful new bargain!

You'll be ahead with Ford's new Interceptor V-8 and Precision Fuel Induction. There's nothing newer than these engines that give you up to 300 hp. Smoother power! From last year's One secret is Precision Fuel Induction, a new carburetion, fuel feeding, and combustion system. It routes the fuel-air mixture from carburetor to machine combustion chambers directly, so each cylinder does the same work, the most work!

You'll get up to 15% more gas savings with new Cruise-O-Matic Drive teamed with the new Interceptor V-8. Here is the newest, most versatile of all automatic drives. Near D1 position, used for all normal driving, lets you move smoothly—at a touch of your toe—from brisk, solid-feeling take-offs to highway cruising speeds. Gas-saving built-in overdrive savings.

You'll ride on a cloud instead of a spring with Ford-Aire Suspension. This is the way you've dreamed of driving—floating on air! Four air pillows lift you up bumps. And the Ford's new air suspension is power-controlled to reveal the car every time someone steps inside or luggage is loaded. It always keeps full road clearance. An extra cost option, you get all this at traditionally low Ford prices!

You'll steer with a feather touch with Ford's new Magic-Circle Steering. Steering is as light as a ball, and that's the secret of Ford's handling ease. Free-moving steel ball joints, steering mechanism, and virtually friction-free—give you the closest thing yet to power steering! And in just one of the many new "inner Ford" advances you'll discover in the 58 Ford, there's been proved steering the world. Come in and see it for yourself!

Come in tomorrow... Action Test America's only world-proved car!

Attendance of troop committees as well as scoutmasters and their assistants is urged by the district chairman. This special course is one of the additional training experiences necessary for the Scoutmaster's Key.

The course will offer techniques for operation of the patrol method of scouting in troops. It includes films, helping the patrol leader do his job, the advancement of patrols, ways to train junior leaders, the scoutmaster as a trainer, projects and reports, and scout ceremonies.

Sign To Mark Historic Iron Works Plant

Explorer Scouts Of LaVale State Mt. Savage Event

Twenty members of LaVale Explorer Scouts Post 10 plan to erect a dedicatory sign at the site of the old historic iron works plant in Mt. Savage as part of their qualification project for the Historic Trails Award of the Boy Scouts of America. The dedication program is planned for 2 p. m. Saturday, November 10.

To qualify for unit and individual awards the scouts are required to select a section of a historic trail, either land or water, plan a trip and follow the trail a minimum of two days and one night.

Second, the scouts are to help stage a pageant or other historical observance or carry out a project to mark properly the spot where some important historical event took place.

Kenneth M. Stone, advisor of Post 10, said the project selected by the LaVale scouts is a plan to mark the site where the first iron rails produced in the United States were made. The site presently is occupied by the Mt. Savage glass plant.

Stone said that 15 of the 20 explorer scouts will have completed both requirements for the Historic Trails Award with this project.

These scouts took a 48-mile canoe trip down the Potomac River from Blue Beach to Little Orleans over the weekend of May 3-5. The scouts were able to paddle the distance without much trouble, as the water was high enough at the time. They were accompanied by William G. Barger, chairman of the post committee, and by Robert Moreland, assistant advisor.

Then in August the group took another canoe trip down the Potomac from Little Orleans to Williamsport. This trip took place August 2-4.

The boys prepared their own meals and slept outdoors overnight on both trips.

Taking part in the canoe trips were William Claus, Morton Cozad, Lynn Deltart, Ronald Gilchrist, Russell Flanagan, Seldon Harris, John Norris, Danny Moreland, Kenneth Moreland, Victor Reuschlein, Louis Shinnamon, David Stone, Jack Tosh, Arthur Williamson and Arnold Zaks.

The five boys who will join this group to take part marking the iron plant site are Elmer Beachley, Hugh Bishop, Thomas Lowery, Charles Sweitzer and Richard Tosh.

The post advisor explained that the latter five youths will work up another project to qualify for the award in place of the canoe trips which they missed.

The National Council Boy Scouts of America has designated individual award emblems to be given members of chartered units completing the basic requirements.

The award is made in an effort to have scouting units aid in bettering the knowledge, ideals, principles and traditions of this country, and to give meaning and understanding to the nation's historic past.

City Investing Idle Money In 90-Day Treasury Notes

The high rate of interest being paid by the government for its temporary financing has enabled the City of Cumberland to invest its idle funds to good advantage.

Funds which are not being used, according to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, are being invested in 90-day United States Treasury Bills.

Bills purchased during October, he said, will provide a return of about 3.6 per cent interest.

Gibson said the city began buying U. S. notes about two years ago, when the Mayor and Council gave the city treasurer authority to invest idle funds.

For many years, the return on various short-term government issues varied from 1/4 to 1/2 of one per cent, and the return was not considered to be worth the trouble and risk.

At present, the city has on hand $310,000 worth of Treasury Bills and will purchase more as soon as tax receipts are compared with anticipated expenditures for the next quarter.

The $310,000 is chiefly made up of various bond funds which are not needed at present.

The investment of such funds last year brought the City of Cumberland a return of about $21,000—almost three cents on the tax rate.

The same source of revenue brought in $25,384 in the 1955-56 fiscal year, when there were more unused bond funds to be invested.

The higher interest being paid for money has also helped swell the sinking fund, set up years ago to retire term bonds issued by the city. The sinking fund earned $70,762.39 last year, Gibson stated, and $65,818.83 the year before.

The current return on government rates is higher than the cost of servicing the city debt, which averaged about 2.51 per cent last year.

Interest on the city's debt varies from a high of four per cent for a General Improvement Bond issue of 1920 to one per cent for the Street and Sewer Bonds of 1945.

Local Court Grants SRC Demurrer

A demurrer of the State Roads Commission as a defendant in this damage suit is not liable to the action here suit. brought by property owners sought to be maintained, and: U. S. Route 220 between McCode the demurrer to the declaration. It is estimated by Population and Cresaptown has been sustained. insofar as the State Roads Commission Reference Bureau that about 50 mission is concerned, is hereby million people migrated from their homelands in search of no- sustained."

The S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company still remains between 1946-1955.

Filed with the memorandum was an order of the court dismissing the State Roads Commission as party defendant in this case.

Walter E. Iser and Dorothea J. Iser, his wife, brought suit against the State Roads Commission and the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company for loss of their spring water through diversion or change of the underground waters' flow. The Iser's own ten acres of land along the east side Route 220 between McCode and Cresaptown. The property is improved with a dwelling and also had a concrete spring house which enclosed a spring, four feet deep, of drinking water.

The State Roads Commission contracted with the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company to reconstruct that part of Route 220 which adjoins the plaintiffs' land. The plaintiffs contend that in the course of excavating, blasting and digging the land they destroyed, diverted or changed the underground flow of the waters from their natural flow and the spring water was caused to leave the spring so that they are without a source of water supply for their property.

The SRC demurred to the declaration on the ground that the commission in an arm of the State of Maryland and under the doctrine of sovereign immunity is immune to suit for damages.

"There are provisions for special state taxes to aid in the maintenance and repair of the new road system, but the monies derived from those sources, being wholly dedicated to those purposes, is not available for the satisfaction of such a claim as the one asserted in this case," Judge Harris wrote in his opinion.

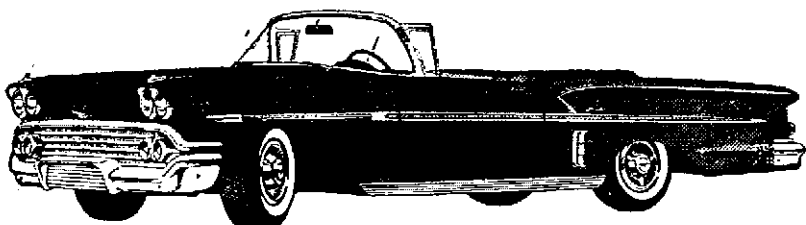

"The legal principle settled by the decisions of our Court of Appeals and the reasoning upon which they are based are conclusive of the question raised by this demurrer and I, therefore, hold

Eight Take Dog Warden Test For Two Jobs Open

The new Allegany County Civil Service Board last night gave examinations to eight applicants for the two posts as dog wardens for the two posts as dog wardens. Woodward D. Pealer, board chairman, and William L. Wilson, Democratic member of the board, were present to question the applicants. J. Glenn Beall, Jr., the other board member, was unable to attend because of illness.

As soon as Beall recuperates, the board will meet and prepare a list of five men certified for the position. The Board of County Commissioners then will select two men from among the five certified who will be appointed to the $3,200-a-year jobs. The wardens also will get an additional 25 cents for each dog license they sell.

At yesterday's meeting of the county commissioners, Mrs. Joan S. Burke, this city, was appointed secretary to the Civil Service

Board Drops 4,025 Names From Books

The Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors has sent out cards to about 10 per cent of the registered voters on its books notifying them that their names are being taken from the books for failure to vote in a statewide or county election during the past five years.

Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, said cards were mailed out over the weekend to some 4,025 registered voters who apparently had failed to exercise their franchise since the November 1952 presidential election.

Before the cards went out there were 40,156 registered voters, 22,653 Republicans and 17,183 Democrats.

After eliminating of the non-voters, Allegany County will have 36,129 registered voters. They include 20,596 Republicans, 15,283 Democrats and a smattering without political affiliation or belonging to minor parties.

Dropped were 3,913 white voters and 82 Negroes. The 2,057 Republicans removed include 985 men and 1,072 women. The 1,895 Democrats to be taken from the books include 891 men and 1,004 women. Others dropped include 69 independents (51 men and 18 women) and four Socialists, three men and a woman.

Mr. Neat issued a reminder that the names of men in the armed forces will not be deleted even if they have not voted in the last five years, because state law states that they cannot be deleted. However, the election board has no way of knowing men are in service unless relatives call the board of office at the Court House to explain the situation.

There also is confusion among some residents of Cumberland, who apparently think that they need only to register at City Hall to be eligible to vote in a city or county election. Several persons who got notices that their names are being removed, called to report that they had voted for Mayor Roy W. Eves in the last election. Another woman said she voted against the proposed increase in the city tax limit in August.

Cards sent to the non-voting registrants remind them that upon failure to appear and contest removal of their names on or before November 18, their registration will be cancelled. In order to vote in future county and state elections they must re-register.

The registrar also reported that the deadline is near for voters to change political affiliation. The final date is November 20, which is six months before the Tuesday, May 20, primary election next year.

October Drop Noted In City Registration

The City of Cumberland had 12,267 registered voters on November 1 after a net loss of 23 voters during October.

Thirteen new voters were registered last month, nine men and four women.

Stricken from the books were the names of 20 registered voters, males, 16 men and 12 women, who died during the past two months.

The names of eight other voters, seven men and one woman, were removed from the books for failure to vote during the past five years.

Total voters registered as the LERWICK, Scotland—The Shetland Islands “Lose” Sunshine

Total voters registered as the LERWICK, Scotland—The Shetland Islands in July had the least sunshine for that month since 1939, with 73 1/2 hours. Rain-fall was 2.95 inches, slightly above average.

Sewage Plant Cost Figured At $1,838,343

Construction Figure Is $1,494,177; Total Engineering $222,129

A total of $1,838,343.79 had been expended on the sewage treatment plant up to and including September 30, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson reported today.

Gibson listed the following expenditures: Construction contract costs, $1,494,177.40; engineering, $222,129.39; bond interest and expenditure during construction, $101,924.24; properties and easements, $1,361; experimental operation, $15,298.92; and capital items purchased in connection with the plant operation, $1,161.67.

The latter category, it was pointed out, would include such items as a car, truck, office and safety equipment.

Gibson said that the sewage treatment bond fund still contains a total of $198,135.93. This includes $49,446.93 in cash and $148,689 in Treasury bills.

Interest On Investment

Gibson said that during construction, investment of some of the funds in Treasury bills had earned $31,615.22 in interest.

Still remaining to be paid is the final $79,114.60 to the contractor. This amount is a percentage of the cost retained by the city as a good faith measure on the part of the contractor. Also to be paid, is final payment of approximately $1,600 to Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer, for advisory supervision.

Any money remaining in the bond fund will be used for capital outlays in connection with operations at the new plant located off Offutt Street.

Dedication of the plant and an open house has been set for 10 a. m. December 6 and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz, chairman of the dedication committee, said today he will have a committee meeting soon to set up a program. Others on the committee are Finance Commissioner John J. Long and Mrs. Jennie Grahame of the County Health Department.

29 Year Amortization

Bonds for the $2,000,000 plant are being amortized over a 29 year period. They were issued April 1, 1955 and will be paid out April 1, 1984.

Under the sewage treatment fee ordinance approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday, 75 per cent of the minimum water rate will be charged or $3.65 after discount. First bills will go out next month combined with the water bills which will be a minimum net of $8.98.

It has been estimated this will bring in $222,000. However, the amount to be received from industrial users has not been determined because of the amount of water it uses in production and which is not returned to the sanitary system. A method for determining this factor is being worked out.

Operating costs of the plant for 1957-58 fiscal year will be $148,000. Debt service will account for another $99,300 or a total of $247,300.

This is not reflected in Cumberland's tax rate since it is provided on the levy side of the budget for sewage charges.

Hagerstown Man Jailed For Theft

A 38-year-old Hagerstown man has been lodged in the Bedford County Jail in connection with a $2,500 burglary at the Smith High School in Bedford County.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said the man, Thomas H. Miller, was arrested in Hagerstown and charged with burglary.

Police said the robbery occurred on October 21. The thieves stole six musical instruments, several typewriters and other machines from the school. Troopers Elmer Landis and Harry Rook of the Bedford substation returned Miller to Bedford from Hagerstown.

The troopers said the case is still under investigation.

Choir To Present 'Hill Billy Night'

The Senior Choir of Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley, will present a musical program, "Hill Billy Night," tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Ridgeley High School auditorium.

Proceeds from the affair will be used for the purchase of a hi-fi system, according to Miss Kathleen High, choir director.

Miss High and Mrs. Harold May, who will direct the program, said it will be presented in the form of a playlet, with songs and music interspersed.

Piano accompanists will be Mrs. Leon Hammond and James Bobo, while soloists are Billie Mickey, Vernon Hill, Earl McFarland and Franklin Benson.

PTA Meeting Listed

The Wellersburg PTA will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the school. The topic of the meeting will be "Tomorrow's Citizen." Roll call will be answered by "What Makes A Good Citizen?"

NO MORE BACK ACES—Three local mailmen look to wheels this morning in an experiment to find out if the U. S. Post Office Department's new huggies will be suitable for Cumberland's hills. Postman G. William Lovenstein is pictured on Washington Street with one of the new huggies which carries two bags and features brakes for use on the hills. Lovenstein is going to keep his wheels, while two other huggies will be used in various sections of the city to determine if they are practical. One conclusion was reached: No more back aches for the mailmen.

Governor Suggests Jobs For Some At Earlier Age

LONACONING, Md. (AP) — Gov. McKeldin suggested today that it might be wise to allow some school children "who have ceased to learn in the academic classes" to accept jobs in trades "at earlier ages."

"Certainly," McKeldin said, "if idleness is a cause of lawlessness and delinquency in the young, there is no virtue in our insistence that the scholastic hours be wasted in resentful staring at blackboards and textbooks that have lost their meanings."

The governor said "book learning is a wonderful thing of which I am strongly in favor," but he pointed out that "some of our greatest men abandoned the schoolbooks in their early boyhoods and turned, for example, to the key of the telegrapher or the wrench of the mechanic."

Camp Dedicated

McKeldin made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at a ceremony dedicating the State's second forestry camp for rehabilitating boys.

The camp is located in the Savage Mountain Forest three miles west of here. It is the second of three camps in the State's plan for restoring youths in the training school for boys and the boys' village to useful civilian life.

McKeldin said that discipline is the balance wheel of human society and the most desirable of all disciplines is that which the individual imposes upon himself.

He said "work is the clean fuel that runs the engine of self-discipline (while) excessive idleness is the sludge that lessens the power and causes the cylinders to miss firing."

Provide Opportunity

The governor said the primary purpose of the state forestry camps is not to relieve the overcrowding of training schools. He said the camps are "devices of applied discipline" meant to provide opportunities for increasing self-discipline and intended to arouse the pride of individuals in their accomplishments.

"They are intended to create a self-confidence and a power of will — the power of that inner discipline that will enable a boy to say 'No' to the law-breaking propositions of shallow-minded companions," he said.

"But if we can arouse those boys to a realization that there are useful and enjoyable skills in their hands, we may launch them on successful and constructive careers," he said.

"It may, indeed, be very desirable that we take another close look at our systems of education to see if we have enough vocational schools for the young people who completely have lost interest in the academic subjects."

Might Need Law Change

"It well may be that more of them should be learning the fine points of their natural skills in night schools and working at the trades during the day."

"Indeed, wisdom might dictate the readjustment of some of our well-meant laws in order that

Harmony Aim Of Democrat Candidates

Tawes Says Party Has Been Killing Itself In Primary

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Maryland's only two official candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor say they want a 1958 primary election with less of the bitterness marking those in recent years.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and H. C. Byrd, both from Crisfield here on the Eastern Shore, addressed the annual meeting of Dorchester County Young Democrats last night at the Cambridge Country Club.

Plead For Harmony

About 100 persons turned out to hear them plead for enough party harmony to prevent a primary campaign like those of the past which Tawes said have "left many scars."

"In effect," Tawes said, "the Democratic Party (in Maryland) has been committing suicide in the primary campaigns. Time after time, the general election has been lost before it began."

"The defeat of the Democratic candidates in statewide elections over the past 10 years can be attributed directly to the bitter contests which have been waged in the primary campaigns. These contests have left many scars and such ill feeling that it has been impossible for the party to unite behind the ultimate primary victor."

Party Can Win

Byrd, former University of Maryland president who was the Democratic gubernatorial nominee in 1954, told the group:

"If it develops that Millard and I meet in the primary, I assure you it will not be the type of primary that will create animosities and ill feeling that would carry over into the general election."

"There is little difference in Tawes' and my viewpoints. If the Democratic Party can avoid the brutal type of primary of three years ago, we'll win. If not, we are lost."

Tawes also said he was subscribing — and urged other candidates to do the same — to a "code of campaign conduct," which he said was:

"I pledge that I will campaign in the Democratic primary solely on the basis of issues. . . I will refrain from indulging in any personal incrimination whatsoever."

SRC Accepts Culvert Job

The State Roads Commission has accepted the project at the west end of Frostburg which included the installation of a box culvert by the George Construction Company of Cumberland.

G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, said that some surface work in connection with the culvert job will be done next spring by maintenance crews of the SRC.

The Martins Mountain project, which was dedicated last Friday, has been completed except for some odds and ends which are being taken care of now, Chaires added.

Painter Victim Of Gun Wound

E. E. Garner, 71, Tunnelton, W. Va., died yesterday of a self-inflicted gun wound at his home. Deputy Sheriff Darius Wiles said Garner was found on the floor of his bedroom with a .38 caliber pistol still in his hand. The bullet had passed through his head and was embedded in a pillow.

Garner, who had been in ill health for some time, was a painter and conducted a business in Tunnelton.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Brown of Junior and Mrs. Victor Huffman of Tunnelton.

Marine Unit Prepares For Anniversary

Plans have been completed for the birthday ball of the Sixth Infantry Company, Marine Reserve, at the Ali Chan Shrine City Club Friday at 8 p. m. The 182nd anniversary of the Marine Corps is Sunday.

The highlight of the evening will be the traditional cake cutting ceremony, according to Capt. Richard V. Molestky, USMC, inspector-instructor. The ceremony is scheduled to begin at 9:30 p. m. and consists of two representatives from each of the enlisted ranks, technical sergeant through private, forming two rows of escorts between which the commanding officer of the unit, Capt. Billy G. Menges, marches to the position from which he will deliver the Marine Corps' commandant's birthday message.

This is followed by the cake being brought in on a serving cart, escorted by four privates. After presenting the commandant's message and making a few remarks, the commanding officer will cut the cake and according to tradition will present the first piece to the oldest enlisted man in the unit and the second piece to the youngest man.

The oldest man is Master Sergeant Harry G. Snouse of Hyndman, and the youngest man is Pvt. Gene F. Will of 605 Columbia Avenue.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, members of the City Council and their wives have been invited.

The local Marine Corps Reserve unit, all of the regular marines stationed in this area and the Marine Corps League have combined their efforts for the affair. Jimmy Andrews orchestra will play.

Mayor Eves Appointed To National Committee

Mayor Roy W. Eves has been appointed a member of the American Municipal Association's committee on water resources by Ben West, mayor of Nashville, Tenn., and president of the national association.

The committee will meet Saturday, November 30, in San Francisco in connection with the American Municipal Congress, and Mayor Eves said he expects to attend.

Cold Weather Forecast In Two Counties

Roads Become Slick With Frozen Rain And Light Snowfall

Continued cold weather is forecast in Allegany and Garrett counties with temperatures dropping tonight as low as 25 to 32 degrees. It will be partly cloudy and cool tomorrow.

Highways in the upper elevations of Allegany and Garrett counties, made slick last night from snow which fell intermittently, were clear today.

R. E. Weber, weather observer at Oakland, said the rain which started in the afternoon changed into snow about 5 p. m. and continued at intervals until 8 p. m. An inch of snow fell but today it was gone. Oakland had a low of 31 degrees overnight and by noon had risen to the lower 40s.

Cumberland's low temperature was 39 degrees early today and at noon registered 45 degrees. A light rain-fell with .66 of an inch recorded.

State Roads Commission crews were out in the mountain areas west of here cinderling roads which had become slick due to the rain which froze and the snowfall.

Frostburg had heavy snow flurries for about 1½ hours last night but the snow melted as quickly as it came down, Frostburg police said.

Snow was reported falling in the Allegheny Mountains most of yesterday afternoon, but melted as fast as it hit the ground. Allamont reported 34 degrees above zero and snow flurries at 8 o'clock last night.

Deal, Pa., has some snow with the mercury at 32 degrees while Elkins, W. Va., had snow flurries and 30 degrees.

Although Cumberland had no snow it was the second time in the past eight days that Garrett County has been covered and State Police were warning motorists to drive carefully.

Jaycees Plan Election For New Director

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will hold a special election to fill a vacancy on its board of directors following a dinner meeting today at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Chan Shrine Country Club.

Nominees for the position are Frank Deremer and Casper R. Taylor Jr.

The organization's "Speak Up JC" course will begin Friday at Central YMCA, according to William Walsh, chairman, who said the session is scheduled to begin at 7 p. m.

Spokesmen for the group also announced that the Jaycees will resume sponsoring a Christmas lighting contest for the Cumberland area. Final plans for the contest will be announced in the near future.

Glen and Susan Brant won an award for the most original costume at the recent Jaycee Halloween dance. Taylor, chairman of the event, said the Brants wore Oriental costumes, depicting the Asiatic flu. The dance was attended by 58 couples, Taylor said.

Recently admitted as members were James Wood Jr. of LaVale and Robert L. Crump of Bowling Green.

Jury Visits Site Of Land Dispute

A jury in Circuit Court visited the site of two parcels of land on McMillen Highway south of Rawlings which the State Roads Commission seeks to obtain title to in condemnation proceedings.

Chief Judge George Henderson accompanied the jurors and counsel for the parties in the legal action to the site.

The SRC filed the suit against Cecil E. Parsons and Virginia C. Parsons, his wife, and Joseph H. Cooper and Bessie S. Cooper, his wife for the properties. The land was used in connection with improvements to the highway.

Joseph D. Buscher, of the attorney general's office, and William L. Wilson were attorneys for the SRC while Harry I. Stegmaier was counsel for the two couples.

For Thursday, November 7, 1957

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Stars stress self-control and quick willingness to work with others for the good of all. Delicate and family matters, artistic, favored. Be especially cautious in financial transactions, commitments.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—A very favorable "Venus day." Love is time getting started on your regular work, new matters, difficult tasks. Do not be careless with tools or machinery, however.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Take reasonable precautions in mechanical tasks, handling tools, etc. Day favors the artistic professions, family matters and delicate affairs.

JUNE 22 to JULY 21 (Cancer)—Avoid anxiety. Go about tasks calmly and considerately and you will force possible adverse criticism from others. Concentrate on the essentials: aim to finish what you start.

JULY 22 to AUGUST 21 (Leo)—If you keep your mind on what you are doing and don't expect the unexpected, you will gain much. You think now. Familiar duties, work for which you are trained especially favored.

AUGUST 22 to SEPTEMBER 21 (Virgo)—It's really up to you what you accomplish now. There is no need to overload yourself with work, which can be distributed among others over a longer period. There are advantages for all who seek them.

SEPTEMBER 22 to OCTOBER 21 (Libra)—The adept, skilled and thoughtful YOU should be careful now; do not go off on tangents when faced with serious situations. Familiar matters will respond in good efforts.

OCTOBER 22 to NOVEMBER 21 (Scorpio)—A day of determination. Reason things out and be fair, however. Don't procrastinate or shirk tedious tasks. Further credit achievement.

NOVEMBER 22 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—Don't break promises and don't forsake your principles even though the day may be difficult. You can solve most problems and gain fresh advantages if you are enthusiastic.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 31 (Capricorn)—With the influences not entirely auspicious you may have to exercise more patience, but you will gain and can reach goals if you advocate tasks smartly. Have faith in yourself and in your work.

JANUARY 31 to FEBRUARY 29 (Aquarius)—Be firm and enthusiastic now. Work for rewards. There is no challenge indicated but there are also interesting and good opportunities. The more skill, finesse and efficiency you use, the better your returns.

FEBRUARY 29 to MARCH 31 (Pisces)—Mild influences in the A. M. will become more hectic as the day advances and tomorrow will have excellent aspects. Take time to plan now, but proceed to act to reap the most from all endeavors.

YOU ROSE TODAY have strong, favorable, interesting characteristics: can make a go of almost any work in which you engage; have the qualities of leadership; can organize, build and better any project. Unlucky Expert Doubled Again

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The unlucky expert dashed to the door and blocked me off as I tried to escape into the night. When I saw that escape was impossible, I relaxed and listened to his tale of woe.

First came the bidding. His bids of one, two and four spades were all correct and a lucky player could probably have afforded to redouble when East doubled the final contract.

West opened the nine of diamonds. Dummy's jack lost to East's queen and East shifted to the queen of hearts. North's ace won the trick and the king and another spade were played. The story continued:

"East covered dummy's nine with the ten and I finessed but without much hope. The last time I made an important finesse must be five years back. Sure enough, West produced the queen and eventually I was down two tricks."

"Well," I said, "your bidding was beyond reproach, but your partner might well have dropped you at a two spades. When your side bids a tough game you can't always expect to bring it home."

"I don't always expect to bring it home," was the reply. "In fact I never seem to be able to bring it home. Furthermore, my opponents always seem to know it. That blanky-blank East only doubled because he knew that I was the declarer!"
